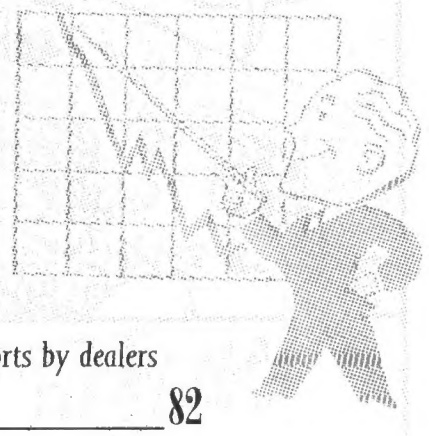
COMICS SOURCE TICKER TAPE

THE INDEX OF SOLD

You ask for it—you get it! Comics Source now provides the only alphabetical index of actual sold comics compiled from the sold listings in the Comics Source marketplace and from sales reports by dealers nationwide. ____ 82



Because of the popularity of Ticker Tape, we are proud to offer in this issue a new department, "Market Letters" from you, whether you're a dealer or a collector, devoted exclusively to the market. If your letter is published, you are entitled to ten free listings in our "Marketplace." As before, the sales information will be listed in the "TickerTape" section.

In the third part of "Introduction to the Golden Age" Ron Goulart brings us a little of the Justice Society, the Dead End Kids, and even Hitler in this fascinating history of golden age comics.

Jack Mallette takes us "Down Memory Lane" as we discover the incredible value of a souvenir rock, and in "Shakin' the Bushes" reveals his wisdom of the Coast Con.

Perhaps you didn't know about the "twenty year phenomenon." Find out more about this theory in the "Intelligent Collector." It might make you rethink those old comics you've been saving . . .

Also included this month are our very own Marketplace and TickerTape. After you finish reading Comics Source, please take a moment to answer our survey. This gives us an opportunity to continually provide Comics Source the way that you want it. Hope you enjoy our eleventh issue. As always, your suggestions and letters are always welcome.

Have a great summer!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Mystery of the Pulps Solved

I can answer Landon Chesney's question that appeared in your letters section about "The Mystery of the Disappearance of Pulps."

There is no mystery.

Although it's fun to think that the pulps disappeared overnight due to some mob conspiracy, that just isn't the case. They didn't disappear all at one time as has been widely reported. In fact, they didn't disappear at all. What did disappear was their way of doing business.

What Frederik Pohl says about the American News Company is true, but he doesn't quite go far enough. Everyone involved in the business end of the pulps was a crook.

American News Company was a big newsstand distributor, but they weren't the only pulp distributor. By the end of World War II, most pulps were being sold in supermarkets as opposed to newsstands. It was the shift away from newsstand distribution which started the pulps long decline.

Newsstand vendors accepted pulps on spec. What they didn't sell they sent back whole to their vendor. Supermarkets refused to handle pulps in this way. If it didn't sell, they tore the cover off, sent the cover back for a credit and threw the rest of the magazine away. No exception was made for pulps since this was the way all other magazines had been handled for decades. And that was big set back for the pulps.

What you have to understand is that the pulps weren't like other magazines. Time Magazine, for example, doesn't care if you rip up unsold copies. They don't want the thing back. The cover price doesn't even cover the printing cost. Time's money comes from advertising. This wasn't the case with the pulps. All costs were covered by the cover price. If the pulp didn't sell one place the publisher wanted it back so he could ship it someplace else.

Utilizing a system pioneered by Joseph Delecorte (Dell Publications), pulp publishers dated their magazines months, sometimes years, in advance of their actual date of publication. This was designed to fool retailers into thinking the magazine was still fresh, even if it had made several stops at other stores. Delecorte used to go as far as to trim the yellowed edges off his returns.

But even this didn't kill the pulps. Now that they had to survive on 40% sales like the rest of the magazine universe, pulp publishers were forced to concentrate on their core titles and cut out the peripheral stuff.

This leads me to a sticky subject. Pulp collectors are almost exclusively male. You know all those romance titles none of us collect? Well, they were most of the market. One of the big problems with the scholarship that's been done on this subject is that it ignores that great number of publishers who did nothing but romance titles.

As for the romance pulps, they're still around. And they're doing quite fine, thank you. The MacFadden Women's Group (publishers of True Story, True Experience, Modern Romances, True Confessions and True Romance), the largest player in the female magazine fiction market, touts a circulation of five million per month.

You will note the prevalence of the "True" prefix. This is one of two shifts in the pulp market that was spawned by the success of Confidential magazine. The second shift was away from the classic slick-painted cover filled with junk paper format. Magazine fiction publishers switched to photographic covers and interior stock which would support spot color highlights and black and white photos. The first of these new pulps was a Canadian publication called Women In Crime.

Now this leads me to a second sticky subject. "True Loose Babes Doing Violent Things" is the oldest of the pulp genres. Anyone who has gone into a convenience store has undoubtedly spotted the "Smut Letters" magazines. I don't know what their circulation is like, but at last count there were 60 of these titles, excluding imports. Let me assure you right now that there is no secret legion of guys who are having much better sex lives than the rest of us, and who have nothing better to do with their time than voluntarily write these magazines to brag of their exploits. This is fiction. These are pulps.

A very good convenience store will carry the "True Police Crimes" magazines on their racks. Again, there are only so many sensationalized headlines to go around. If this stuff were true, it would be a movie of the week, not some sordid same headline on a security guard's monthly magazine.

Mix in the readership of the Na*tional Enquirer,* a cross between what Argosy became and Confidential, the Weekly World News, a science fiction pulp in every sense of the word, and all of the other scandal rags, and it is clear to see that the pulp audience is as strong as ever.

Maybe this stuff should have died? I know it's hard to get gushy-eyed about a bunch of silly love and porn magazines. But that's what most of this stuff was and is.

Regarding Jack Mallette's "Death of Once-Proud Coastcon"

Comicons have been around so long that the novelty value vanished long ago.

With thousands of comic shops in all parts of the country, wants can be satisfied there . . .

Of course, three reasons for cons still exist: cartoonist guests one might want to meet, that rare item one can't find locally, and the conviviality of fellow fans.

For two decades I've chaired Orlandocon, the oldest in the southeast, (third oldest of all, after San Diego and Chicago). The motive has always been non-profit oriented–in fact, many years the sponsors had to dig in their pockets to pay the bills. I have counted fourteen sponsors over the years, myself being the only constant. Mike Kott and I will cosponsor our 21st Orlandocon this year.

It all began as a Sunday convention. With so much talent in Florida, that first con featured giants no longer around: Roy Crane, Hal Foster, C.C. Beck, Les Turner, Mel Graf and Kirby "Sky-King" Grant. Memorable, too, is Foster's bringing six Prince Valiant originals to be auctioned, benefiting the National Cartoonists Society.

That year Florida had 40 professional cartoonists–and I should know, as I was then NCS Florida Chairman. Today we have 150 pros from all fields of cartooning!

After 20 years as NCS Florida chairman, I gave up the responsibilities. The strip cartoonists now have their golf and ship cruises, so we see fewer of them these days. Still, we have as wide a variety of cartoonists as any con! We've never attempted to feature the 'hot' artist of the fleeting moment . . .

We've been blessed by having as our host, from our third con, a cartoonist's son, Harris Rosen (son of the "World's Fastest Caricaturist," Jack Harris, whose latest hotel now features "Jack's Place," a lounge featuring hundreds of Jack Rosen's great caricatures).

We present awards to cartoonists who have advanced the art–55 over the two decades; we want the award to have value. The Ignatz Award is an ordinary brick, painted gold with a plaque that reads "Krazy always considered the brick to be a sign of affection" based on Herriman's classic Krazy Kat, of course.

We're glad we gave awards to the following while they were still with us: Crane, Foster, Beck, Turner, Dick Moores, Harvey Kurtzman, Bob Clampett, Dick Browne, Wayne Boring and Zack Mosley. Extant awardees: Burne Hogarth, Jack Davis, Will Eisner, Floyd Gottfredson, Fred Lasswell, Mart Nodell, Shelly Moldoff, Chuck Cuidera, Don Martin, Ray Goto, Joe Kubert, Don Wright, Dick Ayers, Mort Walker and Florida's own, Mike Zeck, among many others.

We never paid a fee, and only one, nameless here, asked for it; they all recognized our motives. We gave 'em a suite, air fare, and when we had a Disney executive as a sponsor earlier on, they received VIP tours of Disney World. Harvey Kurtzman gave us the ultimate compliment; he returned twice at his own expense. He said, of Orlandocon, "It's the best run, the warmest feeling and the nicest people attend."

In our first decade, we gave equal attention to movies and television, run by Rob Word. We had great guests–Walter "The Shadow" Gibson, Kirby Grant, and the best guest in that area, Jock Mahoney (the "skinny" Tarzan). He knew how to plug us on radio and television. The VCR craze ended that; we found only a dozen in our 200 seat auditorium . . .

These days, new comics are in a state of shock–at least for dealers. That may take years to return to sanity. Meanwhile, that hurts cons too . . .

Some say the "bloom-is-off-the-rose," and there's reason for that. But a con that is run for the right reasons–greed not being one–will find eager attendees and solid dealer support.

The Suggestion Box Is Open

I hope you could take a few minutes to read this letter. Perhaps you do not need any suggestions, but I would like to offer a few in hopes you could use them:

1. Market reports from comic dealers based on actual Comics Source sales published monthly in the Comics Source. Must be positive/upbeat but short, perhaps only a few select people.
2. Dealer plans or incentives to purchase blocks of 50, 100, 200 listings at some savings for the small guy.
3. What about free want list listings as an incentive to subscribe.
4. More articles/stories. Even a photo gallery of comics would be cool.
5. Photo service for actual comics for sale. I do not know if it is feasible because of photo/reproduction.
6. Keep your dealers/subscribers informed of when you are going from monthly to quarterly and then back to monthly. It would be appreciated.
7. A reader's forum. One-three pages long. Where anyone can write a story/article/tips about comic collecting. Published stories get a one-year subscription or free listings. I would give it a try myself.
8. Any thought on extending the Comics Source or something like it to other collecting markets. Like vintage paperbacks, pulps, big little books, movie posters, toys?

Thanks for the suggestions. We already offer a discount plan for those who have 200 or more books to list in any one issue . Please feel free to call us for details.

Comics Source is and will continue to be a monthly publication. Be sure and check out our new "TickerTape" and "Market Letters" sections supported by response from dealers and collectors for up-to-date market information. As far as a reader's forum, we invite readers to send us stories for our column, "Down Memory Lane."

As far as other markets, we offer other publications including Collecting Hollywood. Each issue is jam packed with/original movie posters, obscure videos, celebrity autographs and much more. If you're interested in other collection markets give us a call. We'll be happy to help you.

I have a suggestion, and here's my logic. I would like to see your magazine offer display ad rates at considerably less (perhaps one-half) provided the advertiser is listing only items he/she is looking to buy.

My reasoning: I need a Daredevil #5. I have no problem spending $1.00 to find the seller with a copy I want for a reasonable price.

However, I'm also looking for about a dozen assorted issues of Plop!, Prez 2-4, Marvel feature (Ant-Man 4 and 6), Daredevil 100, Doc Savage (Marvel) 3, 5 and 7, new Dr. Strange 15 & 17. You get the idea. But except for the Daredevil 100, none of these is worth spending the extra $1 apiece to seek out.

My point is you've got a magazine that appeals to just to cold, cunning investors but also to people who love to read comics. And many of us treasure some obscure title or two that the rest of us wouldn't give a dime for, correct? I think there's an untapped revenue stream here for you if you can figure out how to provide this service.

Maybe these cut-rate, wanted-only ads would have to be limited to cheap comics (i.e., I couldn't buy a half-price display ad to say: "Wanted: Showcase 4 G . . . $1500; Marvel Team-Up 1 M . . . $70; Silver Streak GF+ . . . $1300, etc.)

Maybe these ads could be limited to books $30 and under? $20 and under? $10 and under? Whatever, the key would be for you to decide/guess at what point most collectors won't spend a buck to find a fairly common but largely irrelevant/limited appeal comic that they seek.

Thanks for your consideration. I hope I've sparked an idea that creates this service and boosts your income!

Sincerely,
Gene

This is an interesting idea, although at a $1.25 per ad I'm not sure we can get much more competitive than that!

I really like your magazine and think that it is an excellent source for collectors to buy and sell their comic books. I am subscribing and hope to locate several wanted books in the future.

The only thing I can think of to make your magazine better would be to add a section on the big little book market and give people such as myself a chance to add to their collections as well as their collections of comic books. I have not been collecting either one for very long and don't have very many contacts in the business, but since the two are so closely related and even have many of the same characters, it would seem to be a very good opportunity to reach people who have interest in both.

Thank you,

I really enjoyed my first issue of Comics Source, but I think that you should have a comic price guide section. They would sell great if you did that.

Your fan of Comics Source,
Paul Myers

There are already several good price guides on the market today. Many people like the Comics Source TickerTape column because it reflects what is actually occurring in the marketplace.

I've heard that Columbia Pictures has signed Wesley Snipes to play the Black Panther character of the Marvel comics. As an African-American woman and comic collector, I was wondering if there are any black or people of color character in the golden age or silver age comics? I would like to see a feature on this. Thank you for your time.

Dear Jon,

Wow! I don't know if word got out about our newly-opened Gold & Silver-Age room, or if it's simply the great spring weather this month that's bringing in customers from further afield, but in-store sales of older comics rose dramatically the past 3 weeks. We usually do well at trade shows, but in general decent sales on silver age/golden age books here in the shop are considered a bonus. Moreover, we've had decent, if not outstanding material, coming in, including 50-60 '50s romance books (Action, Adventure, Superman, etc.), a low-grade Lois Lane #1, and a miscellany of pulps and other comic odds and ends. I also wanted to say I was very pleased with the first Ticker-Tape issue of Comics Source, and we have already tripled our pre-orders for issues from our Capital City Distributors.

We didn't do any shows this month, so the activity in the shop has been welcome, though we've almost been selling material faster than we can get it processed and out on the tables. We've had dozens of small sales in gold & silver, plus a few of our semi-regular serious buyers from a 90-minute drive radius seemed to all come in within the first 20 days of May. Yet, as I pointed out in last month's letter, most of the sales are in books in the $5-$50 range. There were a couple of surprise larger sales (Scribbly #1, which I felt would sit on my backboard forever, actually sold out of the store less than a month after I purchased it). Most of my sales report you'll see is DC, but that's more because that's what I've had sold to me in the past few months. Cheap lower-grade Marvels are selling very quickly at about 20-25% below last year's guide (they actually may be close to the lowered prices in the '94 book). I've nearly sold out of Fantastic Fours in G-VG that are priced in the $1-$10 range. One customer bought out about 20-30 Sgt. Fury books from the mid '60s. The Fr/G copy of Amazing Fantasy #15 I recently picked-up is on payment layaway, but I won't include it as an official sale until it's paid off, naturally. As are all silver age/golden age dealers, probably, I'm getting letters from all over the country requesting key Golden-Age in any grade, such as Phantom Lady #17, Action #23, All-American, Schomburg covers, Baker covers, etc. Of course, none of these books are strolling into my shop at any price right now, so the wants just get logged into the computer along with all the previous requests. Anyway, I know this isn't 500 words, but the following sales list should speak for itself, this month, so on to it...

The Action #16 and #18 sold to a dealer in a cash/trade combination, so I doubted if they would serve for Comic Source purposes. Normally I wouldn't trade early scarce books such as these, but I owed the dealer a favor. The deal was as follows:

Action #16 (G-, okay looking book, but detached cover)
$185 cash + $95 trade
Action #18 (VG)
$310 cash + 160 trade

Let's start off with what has been selling for us over the past couple of ads and shows. Iron Man #1 has become one of our best selling books. After not selling one for what felt like ages, we banged out four of the five we had in stock. The only VF copy we had at the time went for $225 and we could have sold another one. Also, after selling two VG's at $55 and taking calls for more, we raised our price to $65 and sold another. The animated show will keep the demand high. Another big seller has been Iron Fist #14. We have sold two VG's at $35 and two NM's at $175. We are out of NM copies and could easily sell more. Also, at one show, three copies sold to dealers at our numbers.

After a surprising slump, Amazing Spiderman has caught on fire for us in the last couple of months. Copies of 129 sold at $160 in VF, $200 in VF/NM, and after getting many calls on them, $200 for a VF+ copy. A fine copy has yet to move at $100. It seems like any early number in any grade sells. We got $600 for a VF #6, $260 for a VF/NM #50, and $100 for a NM #51. A VF #12 had two interested parties at $200, (one went away unhappy). A solid VG/F #40 flew at $60 while a nice #39 in VF went for $95. Other Spiderman sales include a F/VF #9 for $275, a #25 in VF for $150, which got three calls, a P/Fr #14 I gave to a good customer for $35 which he turned around and sold for $85, a Fr/G #4 for $60 and a VG #20 sold for $60.

Other noteworthy sales include a gentleman who purchased two Conan #1's in F for $65 each. Batman 200's moved at $80 for two VF's and $35 for a Fine. A Detective 359, which no one wants to sell me, fetched $30 in VF. Brave and the Bold #28 went for $700 in VG.

There are books that I could sell if only someone, somewhere would sell them to me. Some of those include Fantastic Four #52, Detective #359, Plastic Man #1, House of Secrets #61, Strange Tales #110, Showcase #60 and Superboy #68 to name a few.

Books that I have been unable to move include a Batman #155 in G for $25, a Green Lantern #59 in VG for $35. In my young life I have yet to sell my only copy of Marvel Feature #1 in F for $40. Does anyone on this planet besides my partner care about this book? We have trouble moving any book which is a non key. I did not get any calls for a X-Men #2 in G/VG for $95, which I ended up letting go for $75, nor did I get any calls on a VG copy for $125.

Not only is the boat over for gold and platinum books, it's sunk. I can't even give them away. $10 for Deathmate golds and Predator vs. Magnus platinums is still too much. Superman #500 platinum did not go at $35 and I will be lowering it to $25 in my next ad. a Superman #75 platinum I sold for $95 ignited an argument between my partner and I. He adamantly stated that I had gone too low and that I give stuff away all while his skin color was beat read and steam blew out of his ears. The next one we got, after listening to his bantering about, I advertised for $125. After months with no takers I went back to reality and tagged it $100. I still have it. The only gold/platinum I don't mind having is the Spiderman platinum which does sell well at $125. That's all for this month.

Welcome, greetings and salutations to my first edition of Comic Source market report. I look forward to seeing you here each month for my take on the trends.

New books stink. NO news here. While circulations climb, so do the number of outlets for this overburdening number of comics. Recent new book sales have dropped so low my storefront has sunk below the break even point. Hence I will be abandoning the "we're always open, ready when you are, walk-in" policy in favor of a gallery type "by appointment only" setting. I will only sell new books on an advance order pre-pay basis. It pains me to do this, I take a great deal of pride in my retail operation and feel bad that my few loyal customers will be inconvenienced. The average new comic buyer today only wants the new stuff and it's available everywhere (and many times at deep discount). It is no longer necessary to make a special trip to see me. Hey, Mom's already been to the mall d the video store where junior can pick up his books. No hard feelings folks, just cold reality. If personal friendly service and expert advice can't make you drive across town then stay stupid and get treated like trash.

My location and geographic area may be part of the problem. There are three other stores within a two mile radius (they opened at the same time or later). If you broaden the circle to ten miles you will find another dozen. Not to mention Toys 'R' Us, Blockbuster, Palmer Video, Sam Goody, Costco and any other large chain that wants to blow out books.

Recently I've noticed a lot of guys getting back into collecting. You know the type. He's around forty an eight year old and they both get that same glint in their eyes as they gaze upon the respective books of his youth. These guys love comics. They buy 'em, they read 'em and they take care of them. Let's take care of them. These collectors (and the ones who never left us) are the core of our market. They keep it healthy and happy.

Another recent and welcome development is collectors looking to complete runs regardless of condition. Many are even asking specifically for lower grade stuff so they can walk away with more books.

Not long ago I came across a lot of golden age books without covers. I suspect they were returns because the books were not sufficiently worn to lose their covers except from intentional removal. After much research I was able to find issue and year ranges (issue numbers and dates from this time period where indicated on bottom inside of the front cover) which I listed along with character appearances on the backboard. I've had a lot of success selling these books at 5-10% of guide.

Recent sales: constant favorites Uncanny X-Men #266–$35 and Amazing Spiderman #300–$65. Current books in high demand are all women titles: Shi #1–$8, Vengeance of Vampirella #1–$8 and Gen-13–$12. Not much silver in May: Captain America #109 VF/NM (snow white) $55, Avengers #10 F $80 and Lois Lane #70 VF $100 (I'm going to miss that book). Golden age: All-Star Comics #41 Fr/P

$35 (Not so bad, but brown and brittle), More Fun #87 no masthead otherwise F $40 and Star Spangled #68, 69, & 70 coverless, otherwise F $30.

That's about all for now. I hope we are seeing the beginnings of a return to collecting comics rather than simply attempting to keep up with the new stuff. Next month I'll report on the big Nassau 3 convention held in Long Island, New York.

So long from New Jersey.

An Introduction to the Golden Age of Comic Books Part III

By Ron Goulart

The first issue, with a somewhat muddy painted cover, was called just plain Marvel Comics (dated November 1939). Veteran magazine publisher Martin Goodman was calling his company Timely Publications at that point. Funnies, Inc., a freelance shop that packaged comic books, produced the new magazine's line up of characters. These included such durable characters as the Human Torch, Sub-Mariner, the Angel and Ka-Zar. With the second issue the title was expanded to Marvel Mystery Comics, though to most fans the magazine was always simply Marvel. Eventually Goodman's entire company would change its name to Marvel.

The Human Torch, who had the leading position, wasn't human actually. He was "a synthetic man–an exact replica of a human being." His origin story is not exactly coherent, but some basic facts can be gleaned from it. A Professor Horton had been working at creating a synthetic human and he held a press conference to announce that although he'd succeeded, he had some trepidation. "I call him the Human Torch," Horton explained as he unveiled a large airtight glass cylinder that contained his blond, red-suited creation. "Something went wrong with my figuring somewhere–every time the robot . . . contacts oxygen in the air, he bursts into flame!" Sure enough, as Horton allowed air into the glass cage, the Torch took fire. Rather than point out to the white-haired scientist that he should have expected that somebody he christened the Human Torch might just burst into flame now and then, the assembled reporters shout things like, "Destroy that man!"

Although Horton did try to incapacitate his android by burying him in cement, that didn't work and before very long "the Human Torch is on the loose again!" The Torch got mixed up, aptly enough, with arsonists in his premier adventure and cleaned up their dirty racket. By the end of the yarn he'd learned to melt iron bars, throw fireballs and turn his flame off and on at will. When the old professor suggested they might be able to make a fortune, the now altruistic Torch informed his creator, "No, Horton, I'll be free and no one will ever use me for selfish gain–or crime!"

What Carl Burgos, the artist-creator of the feature, had stumbled on was a basic idea that had a tremendous appeal to kids. Most of them go through a phase where they're touched with a little pyromania–they play with matches, yearn after fireworks, attempt to concoct fiery explosives with their chemistry sets. With the Human Torch they had a hero who could play with fire and get away with it. The notion was strong enough that Burgos' admittedly less than masterful drawing couldn't smother it.

Beyond a doubt, one of the things that contributed to the early success of Marvel was the battles and team-ups of the Torch and the Sub-Mariner. Bill Everett's Prince Namor, who'd first appeared in the extremely short-lived Motion Picture Funnies Weekly, had been raising hell from the very first issue of Marvel. Coming to Manhattan from his decimated undersea kingdom, Sub-Mariner was determined to seek revenge. "You white devils have persecuted and tormented my people for years," he explained to pretty policewoman Betty Dean, with whom he had a love-hate relationship. Once in New York City, Namor behaved in the manner of an earlier and larger visitor named King Kong. "He was an angry character," reflected Everett some years later, "He was probably expressing some of my own personality." With the angry prince cutting up in the Big Apple and the Human Torch freshly arrived to work as a cop, a confrontation was inevitable.

"That was an idea Carl and I dreamed up," Everett once explained. "We considered the fact that the two characters and their opposing elements had separate stories and wondered what would happen if we got them together as rivals to fight each other." What happened was a battle royal that raged through Marvel #8 and #9 and wound up in a standoff in #10. When next these reps of fire and water met, they were "fighting side by side!" As a caption in the 26-page team-up saga in Marvel #17 (March 1941) explained, "The Human Torch and the Sub-Mariner are together again. Not to destroy each other but to form an alliance that will stop the gigantic plans for an invasion of the United States!"

In addition to the Angel and Ka-Zar and the above-mentioned pair, there was a fluctuating batch of lesser lights to be found in the pages of Marvel Mystery Comics. The Masked Raider, a road show Lone Ranger with a sidekick named Mexican Pete, survived for 12 issues; Electro, an impressive bright red robot, clanked onto the scene in #4 and held on until #19; The Ferret, a private eye, solved just five cases before early retirement caught up with him.

The life spans of the characters who came along in Marvel's second year were longer. Terry Vance AKA the School Boy Sleuth, joined the crew with #10 and managed to stick around for several years. The strip was written by Ray Gill and drawn by Bob Oksner. The Vision manifested himself initially in the 13th issue (November, 1940) and stayed on for nearly three years. An early invention of the team of Joe Simon and Jack Kirby, the Vision had skin that matched his costume–both were green. He hailed from "the supernatural world" and always materialized out of smoke. Once here, the grim, green-faced supernatural hero tangled with werewolves, fake spiritualists, evil sorcerers, demented rainmakers and man-eating trees. He never smiled and had no pupils in his eyes.

Timely's second title was Daring Mystery Comics, which came along late in 1939. Not destined for success, Daring tottered along and managed to come out only eight times in two years. In its short, ailing life, the magazine tried out over three dozen characters and not one of them achieved anything approaching stardom. Daring was Timely's minor league, where aspiring heroes and heroines tried out. Joe Simon wrote and drew the Fiery Mask solo, the only superhero on hand in the first issue. The rest of the gang included the Texas Kid, Monako, Prince of Magic and Flash Foster at Midwestern. With the second issue came an entirely different crew of uninspired characters–the Laughing Mask, the Phantom Bullet, Zephyr Jones and his Rocket Ship, Trojak the Tigerman , etc. And so it went, with heroes checking in and out of the pages of the magazine as though it were a motel.

Things picked up a bit with #6 (September, 1940). Simon and Kirby contributed Marvel Boy, featuring a lad who was the reincarnation of Hercules. He lasted only one issue before vanishing, along with the Flying Flame, which was an airplane and Tigerman, a young fellow who palled around with a tiger. After a lapse of eight months, the seventh issue emerged. Mostly the work of Funnies, Inc., it offered more new characters and was a decided improvement on what had gone before. Leading off the issue was the Thunderer by Carl Burgos and John Compton, the same team producing the Human Torch. Bill Everett contributed the Fin, another of his aquatic efforts and Jack Kirby was represented by a science fiction hero named Captain Daring. Rounding out the issue were Blue Diamond, the Silver Scorpion and the Challenger. For some reason Daring #8 didn't appear until nine more months had passed.

The cover was by Kirby and showed five of the book's characters running right at the reader. Citizen V, a masked man in a paramilitary costume who fought for freedom in occupied Europe, replaced the Challenger. The rest was the mixture as before. Daring was converted into Comedy Comics with #9 (April, 1942) and the Fin, Silver Scorpion and Citizen V made their farewell performances there amidst new funny characters. In the summer of 1944 the Daring title was resurrected, but only tried and true Timely heroes like the Torch and Sub-Mariner were featured.

Timely's next was Mystic Comics. It was introduced early in 1940 and took nearly two and a half years to reach its tenth issue. Mystic was a flop of the same magnitude as Daring. Among the nonwinners in its first three issues were Blue Blaze, who was almost a ringer for Fox' Blue Beetle; Dynamic Man, who was anything but; Flexo the Rubber Man; Zephyr Jones again. Timely turned to Funnies, Inc. for the contents of the fourth issue and the overall look of the magazine improved. More new characters were to be found in #5. The latest leading man was the Black Marvel, touted as "the most sensational character in action-picture magazines." What he really was was one more crime fighter in a costume. The story was nicely drawn by George Mandel in his Caniff-inspired style. Artist Paul Gustavson was there with Super Slave and Bob Davis, calling himself Mr. X, drew the Blazing Skull, a costumed hero who operated in war torn Europe. A newcomer named Syd Shores drew the Terror, a fellow with Jekyll-Hyde tendencies.

Mystic was looking better, but not reaching the newsstands with anything like regularity. Issue #6 took seven months to show up. A new hero was added and given an unprecedented 30 pages in which to establish himself. He was the Destroyer, another avenger operating in Europe, "has sworn not to rest until he has destroyed the Nazi hordes." An early scriptwriter on this one was a youthful Stan Lee. The magazine limped along until the summer of 1942 and its tenth issue. There was a four issue return in 1944-1945, starring the Destroyer and such Timely standbys as the Angel and the Torch.

The next Timely title holds the record for lack of longevity. Red Raven Comics survived for just one 1940 issue. Jack Kirby drew the cover and an eight-page mythology based feature called Mercury and a seven-pager with a sci-fi hero called Comet Pierce. The Red Raven yarn, about a fellow who was raised by kindly birdmen, has sometimes been credited to Simon, but is actually the work of artist Louis Cazeneuve. Dick Briefer concocted the Human Top, a hero who has the dubious ability of being able to spin around and around at great speed.

The Human Torch was the first of Timely's sparse stable of winners to branch out into a magazine of his own. Dated fall 1940, the new quarterly offered a 19-page adventure of the fiery crime fighter and introduced Toro, the "Flaming Torch Kid." Bill Everett's aquatic avenger got his own quarterly in the spring of 1941. He filled up 40 pages and the Angel took 20 to deal with the House of Horror–"All who ventured past its gates have died . . . or have returned . . . RAVING MAD!" Early in 1941 Simon and Kirby launched Captain America for Timely. A few months later, another patriotic title came forth. U.S.A. Comics came equipped with two star-spangled heroes–the Defender and Mr. Liberty. The Defender had a Bucky-like costumed pal named Rusty and was described as being "strong, fearless and just." He survived for four issues. Mr. Liberty was promoted to Major Liberty in the second issue and vanished after the fourth.

Basil Wolverton, the nonpareil of comics, played it relatively straight with Rockman, Underground Secret Agent. A truly underground agent, Rockman lived "far beneath the surface of the North American continent." U.S.A. also introduced one of the great wacky super heroes of all time, the Whizzer. Although he dressed like an everyday superman and zipped around in a fair imitation of the Flash, Whizzer had an origin that caused him to stand out among his peers. Dying "deep in the jungles of Africa," Bob Frank was given a transfusion of the blood of a "lightning-fast mongoose." Recovering, he discovered he was now incredibly speedy–"And if I'm fast as a mongoose, I'm faster than any human being in the world." The magazine's lineup fluctuated during its five-year run. Captain Terror, the Vagabond and the Victory Boys came and went. From #6 on, Captain America took up residence as the star boarder.

By mixing a little of the Justice Society with the Dead End Kids, Timely got the Young Allies. The first issue of their quarterly was published in the summer of 1941. The story had Bucky and Toro teaming up with three ordinary kids–Knuckles, "formerly a dead-end kid," Tubby and Whitewash–"Yeah man! I is also good on 'de watermelon!" They joined forces with a British agent, tangled with the formidable red Skull and even had a brush with Hitler in Berlin. Timely's answer to D.C.'s All Star made its appearance in the summer of 1945, too. Titled All Winners Comics, it had to fudge somewhat to come up with five heroes who could legitimately be dubbed winners. Undoubtedly the Human Torch, Sub-Mariner and Captain America were front runners, but the Angel wasn't and the Black Marvel was known only by the happy few who happened to notice him in the sporadically released issues of Mystic. He was replaced in the second issue by Whizzer and the Destroyer. Not until 1946 did Timely get around to imitating the Justice Society with a group known as the All Winners Squad. Consisting of the Torch, Sub-Mariner, Captain America, Whizzer and Miss America, the squad had two book-length adventures in #19 and #21. In line with the company policy of keeping readers off balance, there was no All Winners #20.

The above-mentioned titles, the hits and the misses, formed the foundation for what was to become the Marvel Comics empire.

The Art of Skinning a Cat

By Jack Mallette

It was either my second or third junior year at Auburn, I'm not quite sure which. I had just returned from a summer in Europe, during which I traveled all over and spent most of my time in Italy studying art history.

A reporter at the Auburn-Opelika News had caught wind of my comic book collection and the fact that I was putting myself through school by selling comics and silk-screening T-shirts. The paper ran a small article on me and my "entrepreneurial skills," and it caught the attention of one of the local assistant professors in the school of geology.

He called one day during football season when the air was turning a little cool and the coeds walked with a little extra bounce in their step.

He said that he had read the article about me and my collection, and he was wondering if I would like to take a look at his two boxes of comics, and if I was interested, perhaps make an offer.

After I assured him that I was indeed interested, he told me where he lived. Since it was just three blocks away, we made an appointment to meet after dinner that evening.

I don't know about you, but I always get a jolly in the anticipation of seeing a new collection. Its the "thrill of the chase," I suppose. I love it, and I could hardly wait until the appointed hour.

He had told me that the collection included some early Marvels, but consisted mainly of late ten cent and early twelve cent D.C.'s His favorites were Justice League of America and Legion of Superheroes, so I knew basically what I would be seeing.

He lived in a typical college apartment, an electric mix of basic necessities, secondhand furniture with character, and interesting books and cultural artifacts.

The comics were just as he described, and I made an offer of a couple of hundred dollars for the lot. It was a fair offer, leaving me room to just about double my investment. He looked at me with an absolutely horrified expression, and said, "Oh, no! I couldn't possibly part with them for that!"

Never knowing exactly what kind of response I'm going to get when I make an offer for a collection, I can't say I was particularly surprised by his answer. It was my turn, however, to be shocked when he said that since the comics had "sentimental value," he couldn't possible part with them for less than $500.

One of the first things a dealer in comics and related ephemera learns (or should learn) is that they can't pay for "sentimental value" and hope to remain in business very long.

We were at an impas se.

There was an awkward silence as I looked around the room and took real notice for the first time of his various treasures.

Mallette's rule number nine states that you can learn more about a person in five minutes looking at their bookshelf than you can in twenty years of casual contact. The corollary states that, if they don't even have a bookshelf, they aren't even worth getting to know at all.

Judging from his bookshelf, this was one dull guy.

Then I noticed his rocks. And all of a sudden it became - pardon this one - crystal clear.

"I see you collect mineral specimens," I casually remarked.

"Uh, yes, I do," he replied, slightly surprised that I called them "mineral specimens" and not rocks. Then, interest kindled, he said, "Do you?"

"Not really," I replied. "I'm mainly a fossil man myself. Invertebrates."

This was no lie, and he obviously thought it was cool as grits that we had something else in common besides comics.

"I did, however, collect some rather unusual volcanic specimens during my trip to Mount Vesuvius this summer," I continued. "One specimen in particular I just love. As the lava cooled, the neatest iridescent black crystals formed on the interior. You should see it. Best eight dollars I ever spent."

The writing was on the wall.

"You live where?" he asked.

"Just over on Cedarcrest Circle," I answered. "Couple blocks away. Want to see it?"

"Sure," he said jumping at the chance.

Five minutes later he was holding my Italian import in his hands, lovingly turning it this way and that so the crystals caught and reflected the light just so.

And somewhere in the wings the fat lady began to sing.

"Want to swap?" he asked.

I hesitated - but just for a second. "The box of comics for the mineral?" He nodded yes.

"On one condition," I said. "You give it a good home." He said that he undoubtedly would, and the deal was done.

This tale serves to prove Mallette's number twelve. There's more than one way to skin a cat, even if the cat don't like it.

Tell us about your most memorable purchase, your best find, your fondest memories of going to a convention, buying comics off the newsstand, meeting a comic book VIP, trading comics with the kid down the street, or your worst collecting mistake. Shakin' The Bushes

The Way of the Dodo Bird

By Jack Mallette

A couple of columns ago, I ignited a mini-storm of controversy by blasting Coast con and, by association, its organizing committee.

I explained why I thought this convention was headed the way of the dodo bird, and I asked myself what the solution was. There wasn't any, I answered.

Since then, I've been cornered several times by interested collectors and show dealers wanting to know the REAL answer, as if my lack of a solution was just a come-on. "C'mon, Jack, dish it, don't keep it all to yourself. Share your wisdom."

Okay, here it is:

Hell, if I know.

I'm not kidding, guys. I have no answers. But since I wrote those words, I've lost a little sleep wondering if, perhaps, there are some answers. What's the solution? There's got to be one, right?

There's got to be some secret formula for a successful convention, one that goes far beyond a good, strong collector base, fan involvement, successful marketing and promotional strategies, and being responsive to dealers and their needs. There just has to be. That couldn't be all there is to it.

I'm all ears. Let me know, and I'll pass it along in a future column. I'll be sitting by the telephone, okay?

Now let's talk about the recent convention I attended in New Orleans.

This is a town where the collector base has been traditionally large, especially in fantasy and science fiction, but, beyond the efforts of a few dedicated fans, not too strong or well-organized. I've always had the feeling that, with just a little push in a couple of right directions, the swirling mists of semi-devoted Cajun fans would somehow coalesce into a vibrant well-organized fan club, and great things would happen.

Instead, this town has always suffered from having too many Indians and not enough chiefs. (I know what you Cajuns are thinking, but I'm talking about real chiefs. Think about it.)

As a result, convention attendance and dedicated fan support has declined over the last several years, and the fans have even developed little cliques, based usually upon which stores they shop in. And heaven forbid you should be seen entering or leaving the competition's establishment.

So it was with a little trepidation that I booked a couple of tables at Bill Ponseti's first show. As usual, I had grand hopes, but not much in the way of concrete expectations.

The first few hours on Saturday did nothing to improve my opinion of New Orleans as a comic book town, but things started to pick up a little toward the close of business.

Saturday night saw me and weekend associate Ken Stribling at Jaeger's, a West End seafood eatery with a local flavor that really hit the spot, almost as much as the huge dish of steaming shrimp and pasta that Ken and I split: buttery Cajun heaven, let me tell you! I couldn't live in New Orleans, or I'd weigh nine hundred pounds.

The piece de resistance was the fat Cajun Elvis impersonator, singing Elvis's tunes in a Cajun accent. This guy was so funny, people were spraying their beer all over the place. We will go back!

On Sunday, things finally fell into place, businesswise, so maybe there's hope for New Orleans yet.

Mr. Ponseti gave a first-class effort, and I definitely appreciated the dinner at Ralph and Kacoo's with convention guests Dan Barry and Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Moldoff.

Everyone responded well to New Orleans' famed hospitality, and I feel a return trip next year is definitely in order. Good job, Bill!

And some of you out-of-state dealers might consider booking next year's show as well. Some interesting collectors' items crawl out of the woodwork in the Crescent City, so give it a whirl.

I've known Ken Stribling since I got back into comic collecting in the early 1970s. He and Jimmy Butler (Now of Atlanta) had a table at the flea market in Jackson, and one Sunday my sister came home to tell me that she'd seen them at their table full of comic books. Both were in junior high school at the time, and beyond them, Schultz Riggs and Henry Blum, fandom was pretty much nonexistent in Jackson, Mississippi. It was cause for celebration whenever any golden age comics showed up at all, and when Mr.

Blum bought a nice collection down on the gulf coast that included a solid near mint F*ighting American* #1, we all though we'd died and gone to heaven.

Ken and I stayed in touch when he finally went off to college at Southern Mississippi, where he became a two-term student body president.

After serving as a political consultant and speech writer in Washington for several years, Ken came back to Mississippi to run for the state legislature. He has now been a state representative going on eight years, will soon be a practicing attorney, and through it all has remained a steadfast fan of comics.

His favorites include Robert Crumb (what would some of his fellow legislators have to say about that?), Harvey Kurtzman, Berni Wrightson, and Plastic Man and Police Comics.

His wife, Donna, is understanding, as most wives are, but she has no desire at all to accompany Ken when he goes out of town to a comic con so he can let his hair (singular) down.

I've always been fascinated by the wide variety of people who are attracted to our hobby, for whatever reasons, and I will profile collectors from time to time, as the situation warrants.

I'm also very interested in hearing from readers about their collections, especially "topical" collections. I know people who collect based on who or what's on the cover. I know people who collect Silver Surfer covers, dinosaur covers, shark covers, and covers by certain artists.

Let me know about your collection!

Now it's time for another new feature in "Shakin' the Bushes." I call it "Random Ruminations" (for obvious reasons.)

Why do we still keep getting three D's from all the comic publishing houses: Demons, Death and Destruction?

Why are there no good Christian-oriented comics? (I've got an idea for one, if anyone's interested.)

Why doesn't Subway put as much meat on their sandwiches as all those great Jewish delis on the north side of Baltimore?

Why did no one ever come up with a love interest for the Shadow and call her Silhouette?

What does the "J" in J. Keith "my kingdom for an Atomic Bunny #1" Contarino stand for?

Whatever happened to my brother?

Why doesn't Jon Warren make up his mind whether or not he really wants to wear a goatee?

Who really cares?

What will my copies of Conan #1 in Spanish and Italian be worth in the year 2000?

Which book will be worth more in fifty years, the Death of Superman in the black bag, or the Resurrection in the white bag, which has the first appearance of four major new characters in D.C.'s Superman mythos?

Should I open all my white-bagged issues and take all those stupid stickers off the covers, or just leave them like they are and hope they don't turn to mush? Whose idea was that, anyway, and why are they still working in comics?

Does Ozzy Osbourne hate Batman, too?

Should I sell my car that I traded baseball cards for, or should I trade it for more cards?

Why does Alfred have two last names?

Is there something he's not telling us?

What's the closest country to the United States, other than the two countries which border it? (Russia, for the geographically challenged.)

Why did it take until Action #47 or so before Superman's logo became set in stone?

Could these guys not trace? Or did they just like reinventing the wheel?

Does Gary Carter like living in Cleveland, Tennessee?

Does Art Clem like living in Cleveland, Tennessee?

What will my Star Wars #1 in Greek be worth in the year 2000?

What's it worth now?

Are there really guardian angels, or does it just make for great TV.?

Are there really "Charlie's Angels," or does it just make for great TV.?

What in the world are we going to put on 500 channels?

Why did we believe a villain like Dr. Octopus could actually threaten anyone? Shouldn't he have a handicapped sticker on his car's license plate?

Why did people pay as much as $750 for the Billy Ripken 1989 Fleer baseball card, a card you can now buy for five bucks?

Are people really that stupid?

What was God thinking when he made the platypus?

Were the Cleveland Indians mathematically eliminated from the playoffs two weeks into the season, or was that guy just pulling my leg?

Am I really that stupid?

Were Aunt May and Rose Kennedy school chums?

Does Sam Keith really think he's better than Frank Frazetta?

Which paintings did Mrs. Frazetta pose for?

Did she really look that good, or was she "chromatically enhanced?"

Which one is Buck Rogers, and which one is Flash Gordon?

Why didn't my father save any of those neat toys from the 1930s, the Tarzan, Buck Rogers, Flash Gordon, Disney, or Frank Buck?

When will all the male comic characters being created today stop looking like the Hulk?

How much did Todd McFarlane make off Spawn #1?

Ginger?

Or Mary Anne?

Or Mrs. Howell?

I'm outta' here.

Be honest, be fair, beware!

Bye!

The Twenty Year Phenomenon

By Mike Bradley and Andy Kocher

Five years ago you could have bought Ghost Rider #1 for only $8 or Astonishing Tales #25 for $3. Both are now worth between $75 to $100. So why didn't you? Perhaps you didn't know about the "twenty year phenomenon."

We, and others, have observed in recent years that many collectibles increase drastically in value when they reach an age of 20 years. Collectors and investors begin to perceive these items as "scarce," regardless of the actual supply, and demand suddenly begins to increase.

We have speculated why comic books and other collectibles would increase in value at this age. One possible explanation is that the public perceives items to be "old" at twenty years of age and therefore collectible. Another is that thirty year olds, who have recently gained substantial disposable income and have young children, begin to buy things that remind them of their childhood. Once price increases are started by collectors, investors/speculators jump on the band wagon, causing the prices to skyrocket.

In order to observe how this phenomena affects comics, we selected 100 first issues or first appearances from the silver age era, at least fifteen years old, and looked at a certain annual comic book price guide value for that book for each successive five year anniversary of the publication of the book (i.e. for Showcase #4 we took information from a 1976 price guide for the twenty year anniversary, a 1981 guide for twenty-five year, etc.)

On average, values more than tripled during the period from fifteen to twenty years old. Except for a very slow period from about 1985-1990 (due primarily to the independent explosion and subsequent implosion), this held true on all books checked. There are a number of books that came out between 1965 and 1970 that were affected by a slump in silver age comics in the mid to late 1980s and showed very little appreciation before their twentieth anniversary. However, all of these books experienced huge price increases (some over 1000%) in two or three years following their twentieth anniversary.

While it is not feasible to include all the price data we reviewed, a few examples are noted (all prices listed are for near mint copies):

- Green Lantern #1 was valued at $20 when it was fifteen years old in 1975. By 1980 it was valued at $400. The price receded to $260 by its 25th anniversary in 1985. By 1990 the price was up to $660 and it currently guides for about $1,000.

- Fantastic Four #1 was fifteen years old in 1976 and guided for $250. At twenty years old it was valued at $1100. It still guided at $1100 on its 25th anniversary in 1986. The value had increased to $7,000 by 1991.

- A number of new titles were launched in 1968. From Marvel, Captain America #100, Incredible Hulk #102, Sub-Mariner #1 and Nick Fury #1 debuted. All of these guided for between $8 and $12 at fifteen years old in 1983. Because of the silver age slump of the mid 1980s these books' values had increased very little if any by 1980. However, around 1990 the prices on these books went ballistic. Nick Fury #1 hit $35, Sub- Mariner #1 and Hulk

#102 went to $100 and Captain America rose to $250.

- From DC, several new titles came out in 1968. In 1983, fifteen year old copies of Hawk and Dove #1 and Secret Six #1 could be purchased for less than $2. While no appreciation appeared by 1988, by 1991 both books hit the $30 range.

- One book that recently reached its twentieth anniversary is Kamandi #1, which stayed valued at $2 for fifteen years. At twenty years old it was valued at $20.

- Defenders #1 was valued at $10 on its fifteenth anniversary in 1987. In 1992 it hit $40 and currently sells for about $60.

SPECIAL ORIGIN: ALL THE WORLD AGAINST HER!

While nothing is certain, we believe the "twenty year phenomenon" will continue to happen. Many collectors feel that the books from the mid-seventies on will never be truly valuable. They say that collectors took better care of most copies of new books beginning in the 1970s, and therefore these books should be found in abundance in high grade. We feel, that while this may be true of books published after 1980, comic books published in the 1970s are not available in this supposed abundance in high grade.

Comic sales were at historic lows during the 1970s. This is evidenced by the fact that all publishers except Marvel and DC closed their doors during the decade. DC even considered canceling Detective Comics! Considering lower print runs and the number of books damaged due to normal shrinkage, comic books from the 1970s may have investment potential at current prices.

Some prime examples of 1970s books that may have excellent investment potential are Incredible Hulk #181, Giant-Size X-Men #1 and X-Men #94. These are the three key Marvels of the 1970s. While these books are not found cheaply, neither were Fantastic Four #1 or Amazing Spider-Man #1 when they were twenty years old. While there may be a decent supply of these books in high grade there is a much greater potential demand.

Another book we feel may have tremendous investment potential is Star Wars #1. This may be the book that truly saved the comics industry. The movie was one of the greatest box office draws in history and this translated into high sales for the comics, with seven printings necessary to meet the demand. This book may have paved the way for the growth of the comics industry during the 1980s. The price on this book has held steady for the last several years at $15 to $20. This book will be twenty years old in 1997 and it is rumored that another movie sequel is scheduled for release in 1996.

The revival of characters also plays an important part as to when and to what degree prices rise on the comic books as they approach twenty years of age. Certainly, Ghost Rider #1 and Astonishing Tales #25 rose in value faster and to a greater degree because of the popular returns of the main characters at the time. However, character revivals are not the sole reason for the increase. Witness the fact that Man-Thing #1 increased from $5 to $16 between fifteen and twenty years old.

While it is not certain if these trends will continue, a number of books that are approaching their twentieth anniversary are beginning to show some rapid appreciation. In case anyone is interested, some first issues reaching their twentieth anniversary in the next few years are: Black Goliath, Black Panther, Champions, DC Comics Presents, Eternals, Firestorm, Giant-Size X-Men, Howard the Duck, Inhumans, Invaders, Iron Fist, Kung Fu Fighter, Nova, Omega the Unknown, Shade the Changing Man, Spectacular Spider-Man, Spider-Woman, Stalker, Starfire, Star Wars, Super-Villain Team-Up, Warlord and What If.

MAIL-ORDER TIPS

For many of you, mail-order is your primary means of purchasing items for your collection. That's why COMICS SOURCE has put together the following special section. Our Mail-Order Marketplace offers a convenient place to quickly find the items you need from a wide variety of dealers and collectors. But before you shop by phone, look for the mail-order source that is best for you. Here are a few tips to help you get the most out of your buying experience.

Mail order is an excellent way to buy and sell, because it gives you instant access to more buyers, sellers and merchandise than can be found in any geographic market. But, as in any endeavor, it's smart to take precautions.

HERE ARE A FEW TIPS THAT WILL MAKE YOUR DEALINGS THROUGH THE MAIL EASY AND HASSLE FREE.

RESEARCH THE COMPANY

Well-established companies or long-time collectors tend to be reliable, but if you're not sure how well established a company or individual is, it pays to do a little research and ask a few questions. Get References. Call the publication the ad was placed in and inquire as to any complaints levied against the persons placing the ad. Comics Source blacklists any advertiser who receives three unresolved written complaints.

START SMALL

Purchase inexpensive items first, if possible. If you're pleased with the service you receive, order again.

COMPARE PRICES

If a price seems too good to be true, beware. One of the greatest features of our marketplace is the ability to quickly compare prices. If someone's price is far below what others are offering the item for, ask why. There could be a good reason, but sometimes this is a sign of a potential rip-off. We try to screen advertisers, but it's still smart to take precautions.

PAY WITH CREDIT

Whenever possible, use a credit card. Some credit card companies do such things as chargeback on unsatisfactory purchases or give a refund if you find a lower price elsewhere. If you have a problem with an order, your credit card company will often deal with the mail-order company.

BE CAUTIOUS

Keep a record of your transactions (orders, follow-up letters, phone conversations) so that you have recourse in the unlikely event of a problem.

CONSIDER USING A 3RD PARTY SERVICE

3rd party services, such as Pacific Comics Exchange, offer to act as an escrow service. Companies charge a fee for this service, but the fee is well worth it if you're spending large sums of money.

ASK FOR PHOTOCOPIES

Most reliable collectors or dealers will be only too glad to send you a photocopy or Polaroid photo of an item. Sometimes they may ask for a small fee per photo.

DELIVERY METHODS

Ask about delivery methods — find out what carriers are used, how fast they are, and how much each one costs. Record delivery information.

RETURN POLICIES

Because you're buying sight unseen, make sure the company or individual has a return policy you're comfortable with. Find out if you are responsible for paying shipping charges on returned goods and whether you'll be charged a restocking fee. A typical return policy is six days from date of receipt. If the company does not offer a return policy, don't buy!

MAKING THE GRADE

Comic Book Values Are Determined By Condition

by Jon R. Warren

Comic books, like movie posters, coins, stamps, sports cards, and everything else that people collect, are valued according to condition. Because human beings prize things that glitter, the more like new the book is, the more collectors will pay for it. Seems simple enough, right? WRONG!

Because talking about condition really means talking about money, buyers and sellers often have a hard time agreeing on the grade of a book. But, fortunately, there are standard terms that everyone does agree on (what those terms mean is another story). Unluckily, it takes years of looking at thousands of variances of grade before you can really be a knowledgeable grader. So how do you know what grade a comic book is in if you are new at "making the grade"? Let me suggest that you start simple and then focus in on the final grade. Here's what I mean:

PERFECT

We all know what that is, it's a book in brand new condition. When you go to the newstand and pick the best copy you can find, that's probably a PERFECT like-new comic book (unless it was mangled on the newsstand). The term for a comic book in perfect condition is MINT. Although some dealers will try to convince you that 30 or 40 year-old comic books aren't graded as strictly as new comics, I wouldn't believe it if I were you. When it comes to MINT, mint is mint. Period.

ABOVE AVERAGE

If someone bought a comic, read it once or twice, then carefully filed it away, it is in ABOVE AVERAGE condition. We refer to comics in above average condition as VF or VERY FINE.

AVERAGE

The term collectors use to describe AVERAGE is VERY GOOD or VG for short. Since comic books were meant to be read and handled, books that have been read and handled are in average condition. Creased corners, little tears, stuff that you could expect from normal use is common in a VG condition book.

BELOW AVERAGE

Comic books that you owned when you were six years old are in BELOW AVERAGE condition because you probably beat the @@#$!! out of them. And they look it! The comic is still complete with all pages, but the cover might be loose, or a piece might be missing from the corner. You know what I mean... ROUGH ROUGH! Collectors call comics in below average condition "GOOD" or "G". Actually, there's nothing good about it at all other than the fact that you have a copy to keep until a better one comes along.

POOR

A book that looks like it was rescued from the trash is in POOR condition. You know you have handled a POOR condition book when you rush to wash your hands afterwards.

Now that you know the five basic ranges of condition a comic book can be in, it's a much easier task to focus in on exactly what the real grade is. Try it yourself. Take a stack of your books and grade them. Is the first one in the stack just like the day you bought it except for a tiny bend on the corner? Then it's not MINT, but you could certainly say it is ABOVE AVERAGE. Put it in the VF stack. Does the next one in the stack look kind of read and re-read? Put it in the VG stack. Continue sorting the books by basic grades. When you are done, refer to the following detailed grading descriptions. You can focus in on the actual grade by reading these fine-tuning grading descriptions. The one that sounds the closest to the grade of your book is the actual grade.

Here are the terms that we comic book afficionados use to describe condition. Throughout the pages of Comics Source you will see these codes used to indicate grade. Memorize them, learn what they mean, and then you can start "Making

The Grade".

M MINT

A Perfect 10 on a 1-10 scale. A flawless copy in the same condition as the day it was printed. The MINT grade is virtually non-existent in Pre-1970 comics*. Golden Age comics in MINT are extremely rare and fetch huge premiums over average copies of the same comic. When grading a comic mint, no consideration should be given to the age of the book. No printing defects can appear on a MINT comic. The cover should have full original gloss, and appear bright, with sharp corners and no imperfections of any sort. Minute color variations can occur during printing, and are allowed in the MINT classification. The inside covers and all pages are creamy white and fresh. The binding (spine) is tight, flat, and clean without wear or stress lines. Not the slightest blemish can be detected around staples, along the binding and edges or at corners. Arrival dates pencilled (not inked) on the cover are usually acceptable as long as they're very small. When the surfaces of the front and back covers are held to the light, not the slightest wear, indentations, wrinkles or defects of any kind can be observed. As comics must be truly perfect to be in this grade, they are obviously extremely scarce and seldom offered for sale.

MINT IS COMMON IN RECENT COMICS

*Today, most recent comics are bought by collectors and immediately sealed in protective coverings. Recent releases are usually in Near Mint to Mint condition.

NM/M NEAR MINT TO MINT

Approaching MINT but with a very slight blemish of some sort.

NM+

Top of the NM range. NM/M and NM+ are interchangeable.

NM NEAR MINT

9 on a 1-10 scale. A copy that is virtually MINT but for one or two very tiny imperfections. Like new but with tiny flaws found on most new comics. A tiny (1/16th inch) color flake missing at a staple, corner or edge, or a tiny (1/16th inch) edge tear is allowable in the category if no other imperfections are present. No crease of any kind. Superb cover gloss is present. A very few tiny stress lines along the spine could be present. Pages and covers should be creamy to white, not yellow or brown. No color touch-up, repair or restoration of any kind is allowed in this grade. This grade is very rare in books prior to 1970.

NM-

Bottom of the NM range.

VF/NM VERY FINE NEAR MINT

8 on a 1-10 scale. Beautiful, glossy and excellent in every way with only minor imperfections that keep it out of the higher grades. One tiny corner crease of less than 1/8th inch length is allowed. A couple of tiny (1/16th inch) stress lines along the spine are acceptable if the appearance of the book is not gravely affected. Pages should be creamy white, not yellowed or tan. A common defect in this grade is a tiny spine tear at the upper or lower binding (spine) not greater than 1/16th inch in length. One or two tiny tears (1/16th inch) are permitted in this grade if the copy is otherwise without flaw. An extremely tiny tear repair, microscopic dot color touch-up, unobtrusive arrival date erasure or other similar invisible alteration, on an otherwise Near Mint copy, is permitted in this grade.

VF+

Top of the VF range.

VF VERY FINE

7 on a 1-10 scale. Superb. An outstanding copy in an unusual state of preservation. Clean and bright with sharp corners and pliant interior paper. Slight cover wear is present; possibly 5 or 6 tiny wrinkles or stress lines at staples or along spine where cover has been opened a few times; still clean and flat with 80 per cent of cover gloss retained. Interior page quality should be creamy to white, not yellowish or brown. A few tiny color chips or imperfections could be present. A faint 1/4" corner crease on an otherwise exceptional copy could be present in this grade. Very minor professional restoration or repair is permitted in this grade if noted and described.

VF-

Bottom of the VF range.

FVF FINE-VERY FINE

6 on a 1-10 scale. Above Average. A clean, bright copy lacking the crispness associated with Very Fine. Pages can be slightly yellowed but not brown or brittle. Several tiny stress lines along the spine or covers can be expected. Several tiny color flakes are permitted. No subscription creases or spine roll allowed in this grade. Corners may be slightly rounded. Exceptional cover gloss remains (60 per cent or more).

F+

Top of the FINE range.

F FINE

5 on a 1-10 scale. A slightly better-than-average copy with obvious aging and diminishment, but still relatively flat, clean and glossy without subscription creases, writing on cover (except an arrival date), brown margins or tape repairs. Typical flaws include: Light spine wear, minor surface wear, a light crease (1/4" in length), minor yellowing/tanning to interior pages. Still a bright copy with 50 per cent cover gloss. A few stress lines around staples and along spine are normal in this grade, but not more than 1/8" in length. One small edge chip or several tiny chips (such as Marvel chips) are permitted in this grade. One minor tear is allowed on an otherwise FVF copy. A very minor spine roll on an otherwise clean and uncreased copy is permitted in this grade..

F-

Bottom of the FINE range.

VG/F (VERY GOOD FINE)

4 on a 1-10 scale. Better than VG+, approaching FINE but not quite sharp enough to merit the higher grade. Frequently, a FINE copy with an unusual flaw is lowered to VG/F.

VG+

Top of the VG range.

VG (VERY GOOD)

3 on a 1-10 scale. Average. Ordinary signs of use. Appears used, but not abused. The common state of preservation of a comic book that has been used as intended. Significant diminishment of original cover glossiness. Noticeable discoloration or fading could be present. One or two minor markings on covers is permitted. Minor binding (spine) rolling may have occurred. Lightly creased along spine or extremities; a faint subscription crease is allowed. The covers could have a minor tear or crease where a corner was folded under. The centerfold could be detached or loose from the staples. A small chip or piece from the covers, or a small piece from an interior page that does not affect the live area (artwork area), is acceptable. Pages and inside covers could be tannish or yellowed, but not brittle. A small tape repair could be present in this grade. Still, the appearance of the comic is such that many collectors find the book acceptable until a finer copy can be located.

VG-

Bottom of the VG range.

G/VG GOOD VERY GOOD

2 on a 1-10 scale. Approaching VERY GOOD, with too many signs of abuse to be a solid VERY GOOD. G/VG and G+ represent a very slight variation in grade.

G+

Top of the GOOD range.

G GOOD

1 on a 1-10 scale. Below average. A worn copy but complete with all pages including centerfold, which may or may not be loose. Creased, scuffed, covers lack gloss, faded. Pages could be brown and brittle. Although a copy in this grade could have white pages and covers, the accumulation of defects such as creases, tears or chips and general wear prevent the book from a higher classification.

G-

Bottom of the GOOD range.

FR/G

Approaching GOOD, with too much wear to be a solid GOOD. FR/G and FR+ are interchangeable.

FR+

Heavily worn but approaching the GOOD classification.

FR FAIR

1/2 on a 1-10 scale. Used and abused. Extremely worn, creased, and dirty, with possibly loose pages or significant tears, but still complete. Possibly small pieces missing from the cover, inked markings, tape, etc.

P POOR

0 on a 1-10 scale (is that possible!). A terrible copy. Damaged; extremely worn; dirty; or otherwise unsuited for collection purposes. Pages could be missing. Could be coverless if noted.

SHIPPING CHARGE USPS or UPS ground is normally $5 within continental U.S. for most orders, extra charge for Canada & Overseas or overweight. Fed EX, Blue Label, etc. is an extra charge.

PLACING YOUR ORDER By mail or phone. All advertisers must ship orders within 2 working days after receiving good funds. Phone orders should either be paid by credit card or placed on hold for 7 days. If not paid within 7 days items are placed back in stock. Mail orders should list alternate choices when possible, but alternates are used only in the event your first choice is sold.

PHOTOS Most sellers can provide a photo or Xerox copy but usually request a $1 fee to cover the time and expense.

GRADING Standard grading terms apply. Consult "Making The Grade" for more details about the different grades/conditions of comics.

DISCOUNTS Most sellers offer a 10% courtesy discount to other dealers. This is optional. Most ask to see a letterhead, copy of business license or resale # to qualify. Inquire.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED! Return any item within 6 days for a prompt refund.

COMPLAINTS?

If you have an unresolved problem with an advertiser, contact the publishers of this magazine. Any advertiser with three unresolved complaints will not be permitted to continue advertising.

THE MARKET-PLACE & HOW IT WORKS

How do you contact the advertisers? Simple, all you do is look up the ID code at the end of each listing in the MARKETPLACE ADVERTISER DIRECTORY (in the back of this issue). There you will find the name, address, and (usually) the telephone number. Call 'em up and order!

The COMICS SOURCE Indexed Marketplace is a unique method of arranging ads. Each listing is like a classified ad, with a code at the end that indicates who the buyer or seller is.

Remember, COMICS SOURCE is not a clearinghouse or middleman, you deal directly with each advertiser.

MAIL-ORDER SELLING TIPS

1 Ship orders within two days after the check clears.

2 Get a supply of padded mailers, boxes, mailing labels, and shipping tape. These are available at your local office supply store. Package with extreme care to avoid any damage in shipment. Inform the buyer when you will ship the order, and then follow up on it.

3 Always insure your package. For U.S. Postal Service packages, use a return receipt so that someone must sign for it. Whenever possible, use UPS or Federal Express becuase they automatically require a signature.

4 Pack books carefully in a sturdy box or mailer. Don't cram books into a package.

5 Include your name and address on both the outside and inside of your package.

6 Don't spend the money until the buyer's return privilege expires.

7 If an item is already sold, send a refund check, not a credit form.

8 Treat your buyers the way you'd like to be treated and they will become good customers—buying again and again.

9 As a Comics Source advertiser, you must accept returns for any reason if the comic(s) is sent back in the same condition received and postmarked within six days of receipt. Send refunds promptly. If comics you sent were damaged by the carrier, refund the buyer's money immediately and file your insurance claim.

Mail-Order sales have become highly regulated by the USPS, observing these rules will avoid problems.

THE INDEX OF SOLD

NEW CONCEPT!

TickerTape listings are comic books that have been reported to Comics Source as sold by dealers and collectors nationwide.

All reports are strictly confidential!

Advertisers are not required to report their sales to us—it is totally voluntary.

Any collector, dealer, retailer may report sales to us. We encourage collectors to get involved so that other collectors may be informed as to what comics are really selling for.

Comics Source reserves the right to include only those reports that are deemed trust-worthy.

THE FORMAT

The format of the index shows the title, issue number, grade, a code for the person reporting the sale, the date the sale was reported, and the index id# which holds confidential information for our verification purposes. Listings are sorted by grade, then by date, then by price.

USEFUL FEATURES

- Sales Comparisons—Before you sell a valuable comic, consult the TickerTape. Find out what others have sold similar books for.

- Demand Indicator— The TickerTape helps you track which books are experiencing heavy demand.

- Rarity Indicator—Older books in top condition are rare, so the TickerTape serves as an indication of how often these rare books are reportedly sold.

Investing, price guides, TickerTape—the wake up call

Imagine for a moment that, for some unknown reason, every comic book price guide ceased to exist. We all know that it could never happen. But for the sake of argument, let's pretend that we no longer had price guides with their cute little plus signs and red bars to tell us what our rare comic books are worth. Would the market for rare comics survive? Do most collectors justify their mega-purchases by saying, "Look honey, these comics keep going up in value! They are a good investment! The $2000 worth of books I bought last year are worth $2800 this year."

My opinion is that they do. The vast majority of comics collectors who spend over $100 on a back-issue would not do so if comics didn't have a long history of price appreciation. In other words, no investment angle, no market. Do you agree or disagree?

Let's set the ground rules of this discussion, first. We're not talking about new comics here. I agree that most readers buy new releases without much concern for their future value. And I don't want to hear the old soapbox cliche of "if you're not buying comics for enjoyment, your buying them for the wrong reason." I'll buy this month's issue of X-Men for enjoyment, but my Near Mint X-Men #1 is an investment and don't try to convince me otherwise. Heck, if I just wanted to enjoy the story, there are plenty of reprints of X-Men #1 available. Why pay $3000 for entertainment value? I contend that nobody does—everyone spending that kind of dough is considering the purchase part of some kind of formal or informal investment portfolio.

TICKERTAPE™ THE INDEX OF SOLD

That's why it's so important to know who is doing the price guides. How reliable is that information? Do the editors of XYZ price guide have experience in the market, or are they tossing darts at a dartboard?

That's also why TickerTape is such a valuable and long-overdue resource. It's one more way to track the market. And it's real. The prices were really achieved. Even if you don't trust any of the price guides, you can take the information in TickerTape to the bank knowing that, in any investment, nothing is more important than documentation that items similar to yours have sold for prices equal to or above what you paid.

That's how real estate is appraised (they call it comparables). That's how most tangible investments are appraised.

A sales index such as TickerTape will benefit the market for rare comics by helping to establish real values. The market will be stronger if collectors have a high confidence level in the prices they are paying. The market will weaken and possibly collapse should collectors develop a low confidence level (resulting in a mass sell-off such as happened in the sports card market).

WAKE UP CALL TO DEALERS IN RARE COMICS. Support the TickerTape because it will help your business by providing collectors with the kind of information they need in order to justify large investments. That's the bottom line. Send in sales data for the index. Do it. If you want to be placed on our mailing list to be reminded each month, just call. But take action. The comics market is reaching a critical point. For the market to sustain itself and continue to grow dealers/retailers must be committed to giving collectors more information, and more service, than ever before.
